As a member at Bryan

- Not a mere number-

I am one-a being-
Yet I am many.
Living fiesh
And alive
As together . . .
. . . Striving, we stretch for the farth'rest goal.
. . . Laughing, we relish life's fullest pleasures.
. . . Grappling, we find new kinships.
. . . Learning, we discern our earth-born minds.
. . . Working, we trust our holy God.
Not just me here in my carrel,
Nor simply you as you go off to the wilderness.
Returning we unite.
Then together we reach
And reaching receive
More than our slender hearts can hold.

For the body is not one member, but mony.

If the foot sholl soy,
Becouse I om not the hond, I om not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

And if the eor sholl soy,

Becouse I om not the eye, I om not of the body;
is it therefore not of the body?
If the whole body were on eye, where were the hearing?
If the whole were hearing, where were the smelling?

ONE, YET MANY

MANY, YET ONE

But now hath God set the members every one of them in the body, as if hath pleased him.

And if they were oll one member, where were the body?

Bul now are they many members, yet but one body.

Not just me here in my carrel, Nor simply you as you go off to the wilderness.

Returning we unite.
Then together we reach
And reaching receive More thon our slender hearts con hold.

For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many are one body: so also is Christ.

For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body whether we be Jews or Gentiles. whether we be bond or free, and have been all mode to drink in o one Spirit

For the body is not one member,

 buf many.

Practical Christian Involvement

One of the mony privileges which come from attending a Christian school is the opportunity to help in Christion ministries. PCl hos a variety of areos in which students can participate.

Many of the ministries ollow us to work with children. One which is helpful for those who plan to teach is the Bible classes for the elementary school children. This year sixty-five students taught in six of the area schools reaching approximately two thousand children.

A more recent ministry is the Saturday morning AWANA program. Each Saturday fifteen boys and forty girls meet with twenty college students in the gym to have a time of games, Bible memorizing, and a devotional.

The Big Brother/Big Sister progrom wos organized to help students become friends with the younger people in the community. This year students were urged to bring their little friends to campus for special events or just a meal. This is a special program to help them grow spiritually.

PCl doesn't reach only the children, but also the adults. This year many of the students are excited about the new nursing home ministry. Students visited Rhea County and Graysville nursing homes once a week to bring cheer to people who stay there.

Soccor

With sixteen returning lettermen, nine of which were seniors, we were certain our soccer team was going to go far. Very few, however, would hove dared dream how far. Excitement mounted when the team won the TISA state tournament. Late in the afternoon on November 15, when Mr. Seera received the telephone call from Mr. Andrews who was in Virginio thot the team had won first place in the NCCAA, students flocked to the Lion's Den to await the return of the triumphont Lions and to welcome them when they arrived home at 1:30 A.M. Special honor goes to the nine seniors for their efforts during their years at Bryan: David Beaty, Chuck Gront, Biff Quarrles, Ken Baker, Mastin Robeson, Poul Shaver, John Lacey, Randy Ballard, and Roddy Miller.

Wan 13/Lost 2

Cross Country

Last year when the Lions came in fourth place in the NCCAA, we thought that they had done a commendable job; but when they came in first this year they proved that they were champion quality.

This year they had a good season with 13 wins and 2 losses as well as two firsts in invitationals and two championships.

Potter, Wood, Clarke, Lane, and C. Hatten took first, second, third, fifth, and seventh places respectively in the SCAC.

The highlight of the year came on November 8, 1975, when at Winana Lake, Indiana, they became the first Bryan team to take first in the NCCAA. The victory came as a surprise since they were competing against such teams as Cedarville, Geneva, King's and favored Eastern Mennonite. This was a fitting way to end the careers of Chris Hatten and Tom Potter; and a tribute to the fine leadership of Jake Matthes who was named both SCAC and NCCAA Coach-of-the-Year.

The start to a big finish.

Track

The track team, although still operating on a club basis, brought together a strong group of performers for the 1976 season. The season began with several road races held in the Chattanooga area and moved on to several outstanding meets including indoor and outdoor meets at the University of Tennessee and finally the NCCAA meet held at Cedarville, Ohio, on May 1, 1976. As in the past, the distance and field events were strong points for the Lion squad.

This year was somewhat of a rebuilding year for the Bryan men's tennis team. Standouts Craig Samuelsen and Paul Combs were the lone returnees from last year's team, yet a good group of newcomers helped mold the team into a contender for the SCAS title.

A demanding schedule against teams from various colleges in Tennessee and Georgia got the netters ready for the conference match, which was held on April 30 and May 1.

Baseball

After a nearly perfect fall season, the baseball team looked forward to an equally successful spring season. A great advantage was the twelve returning lettermen, including last year's All-Staters, Anthony Revis and Dennis Metzger. A better-than-average pitching staff and greater depth on the bench gave them hope for bettering their last year's 8-8 SCAC record. Through greater dedication, desire, and hustle, both on and off the field, the players wanted to fulfill their expectations of a record season.

Drama

A drama grant for student directors and one hour credit for play participation highlighted the academic year for Hilltop Players. Drama for the bicentennial depicted everyday American life in Our Town by Thornton Wilder with Cindy Slaick as Emily and Ed Seale as George.

In her lectures for the Literature and Modern Languages Division, Jeanette Clift George presented new ideas which the Hilltoppers used for their experimental collection of cameos produced in February along with the one-act play, No Name in the Street.

Madrigals

The seventeen members of the Madrigals kept busy first semester with a week-end trip to North Carolina in addition to their regular concerts in churches and high schools around the area. A highlight of the semester was the taping of two shows to be broadcast over Channel Three in the Chattanooga area. Second semester included a fiveday trip to churches and schools in Virginia. In addition to their regular selections of sixteenth century madrigals, gospel folk and secular songs, historically important American works were added to their repertoire.

Chapel Choir

Since so many people wished to sing, the music department formed the chapel choir, which replaced Choralaires and was open to any student who wished to sing. Their fall concert in November was sacred Music featuring many of Eugene Butler's works. In their spring concert they sang a selection portion of I Love America by Don Wyrizen and John Peterson. They also joined the band and several orea choirs in the performance Sound of America.

Choir

On October 24, 25, the choir's annual variety show-the funds of which are used to help defray traveling expense for the annual spring tour-focused on the bicentennial theme using a five-screen slide panorama as a background for their appearance in historical costume as they sang American songs from colonial times to the present.

This year the choir was asked to assist in Chattonooga's annual Christmas program on December 5, 6, and 7, with the Chottonooga Boys' Choir in the Singing Christmas Tree.

During spring break the choir traveled to Texas (including a program at Dallas Theological Seminary), Georgia, Alabama, Lovisiona, and Mississippi presenting a collage of American music including music of the Moravians, Black Spirituals, and works by Billings, Ives, and Bernstein.

Band

The main performances of the band were the fall and spring concerts. The fall concert included a baritone solo by Dan Weil and a piece, "Naos Anthropos," composed by Mr. Boyd. "The Sound of America," a bicentennial arrangement for band and choir, was the highlight of the spring concert. Several area choirs joined the college choirs in the presentation, with Mr. Hill and Dr. Bartlett as narrators.

The band accompanied the singing in the evening meetings of the Christian Life Conference including two pieces written by Mr. Boydone congregational number, "Word Eternol," and one solo written for Dr. Bartlett.

Girl's Athletics

Achievements were many in girls' athletics this season. Under the caaching of Jeff Tubbs, this year's basketball team, newly clad in red and gold, displayed a continued fighting spirit.

In volleyball the Lionettes had a near perfect record in their first season in the Southern Christian Athletic Conference. Louise Burt and Kathy McReynolds represented Bryan on the conference's All Star team.

Another honor was the awarding to Don Hewlitt the title of SCAC CoCoach of the Year.

The most appreciated and greatest achievement was the growing interest and support of the student body.

Student Union

Student Union's planning this year has paid off, resulting in more activities in which students themselves can participate. One of the events was the trip they sponsared to Six Flags over Geargia.

Gary Franklin and his committee set up a cancert schedule with music ta try to please all students. The new schedule included Truth, Pat Terry, Dave Boyer, and Steve and Maria, favorites who were well received in former years. A major accomplishment was to have same activity after every home basketball game to get the students invalved. The Student Union's chief goal was to unify the student body through a competitive spirit.

This year the Valentine's Banquet was right on Valentine's Day. Sponsored by Student Union, it was made complimentary for the married students. Pictures of Bryan couples along with red and white tablecloths and carnations helped to emphasize the theme of love. Short parodies were done by the Student Union members of the love lives of couples from Adam and Eve to Gerald and Betty Ford. Each one was in troduced with a short dance by "Fary Granklin" himself. To end the evening awards were given to various couples of individuals by Gary Criswell and Skip Cline.

Intramural Activities

Jeff Tubbs and his cammittee of Gary Criswell, Dennis Metzger, and Steve Criswell worked hard to have an exceptional pragram in the intramural activities. For the first time we played Lee College in football and wan, 19-14. The celebrated North-South game found the South conquerar for the second consecutive year winning 32-14. The Junior class reigned supreme in flag football beating the Seniors in the championship game, 18-12.

There was active participation in bath the singles and the doubles poal tournament evidenced by the 48 entrants who played in the singles tournament, some of which were girls.

An abundance of Long Dorm residents took an active part in the annual nerf ball tournament held in several different rooms. Guys and girls turned out for the yearly singles, doubles, and mixed-doubles ping-pong tournaments.

Two teams from each class, two alumni teams, and one faculty/married students team also competed intensely for the first spot in the basketball intramurals.

After a good start last year, the girls' intramurals cantinued its efforts far improvements. After alot of preparation, a "powder-puff" football game was played. Teams from Huston, Arnold, Cedar Hill/Radar/Maranatha, and Staff/ Alumni all participated in a full schedule of girls basketball.

Day Students

The big thrill for this year's commuters was on ice-covered Bryan Hill which kept them from attending the first day of second semester classes. To top that, a few days later they got stuck in a one-inch snowstorm while in the midst of their steep climb toward higher education.

Arrival of New Students and Registration

During the summer many changes had occurred, the largest of which was the beginning of the Rudd Memorial Chapel. The campus was once again ready to $w \in$ 'come freshmen, transfers, and returnees to another year of friendships, heartaches, and studies. Freshmen had two days in which to adjust to dorm life before entering a busy week of testing.

With the testing came rewards in the form of parties and receptions. Long lines became customary as we experienced times of waiting. These were interspersed with times of decisions as we filled out class schedule cards and salved the many class conflicts. Through all of these experiences, we shared times of meeting new people and starting friendships which will last for many years.

Graduation

After an exciting two-day trip to Calloway Gardens, seniors returned for the final ceremonies. Beautiful clear skies welcomed the graduation guests. Mr. Leininger, father of seniors Jan and Judy, inspired us with his sermon "The Mon with Spiritual Insight." Following the example of last year, we had two student speakers ot the commencement service. Karen Underwood and Steve Bradshaw, winners of the McKinney Essay Award, read their papers. Seniors dispersed after having shot the usual rolls of color film.

President's Reception and All-School Picnic

At the end of a rough first week of orientotion, the freshmen and transfers had one more test before they could relax at the All-School Pienic. This was the President's Reception. After blind-date couples met in front of Huston, they hurried past the upperclassmen who were attempting to douse them with cat litter (to replace the forbidden rice). A reception line of administrative personnel was the final traumatic experience before reaching the refreshment table. When everyone had arrived, the Madrigals and some of the professors presented a Bi-Centennial program. The freshmen were now ready to go back to the dorms to see how active the upperclassmen had been in their absence.

The college community was greatly disappointed to awaken on Saturday, September 6, to find that the day for the AllSchool Pienic was a grey, drizzly day-mud would make the morning games impossible. Most of us spent the morning in cars or under shelter. It was with great joy that we saw the food truck drive up. After onother Argo's special picnic, Mr. Phillips gave an object lesson comparing a guitar string to a Christian. The swinging bridge and hikes to the falls provided entertainment for those who were brave enough to stay in the rain.

Second Semester Students

While sixty-five students did not return after the first semester, nineteen of them graduated and two others finished their selective programs. Thirty-three new students entered for the second semester-some of these new freshmen, some returning students, and others transfers. An additional fifteen part-time students picked up courses they needed.

Bible Program Expands

As the school expands, so must the Biblical Divison. This year it has become the first Christian college to offer Programmed Instruction. Techniques have been enlarged to include videotaping of students in Methods of Bible Teaching. The addition of Mr. Gary Phillips has helped to relieve part of Dr. Anderson's laad.

With a strong Biblical foundation, Bryan is able to remain the conservative evangelical, liberal arts college it has been in the past. Using God's Word as the basis for each subject, the Bible majors are prepared for either a Christian education ministry in a church or further preparation in a seminary.

Miss Rachel Ross, Assistant Professor of Speech

Mr. Bryan Shelley, Instructor in English and Speech

Literature and Modern Languages

With the arrival of the largest freshman class, the English Department was glad to add Mr. Bryan Shelley, a 1972 graduate, to the staff. To give us a better foundation in literature, the required course of Introduction to Literature, as well as Literary Criticism, was expanded to three hours instead of the former two. With our Biblical basis, the teachers' lectures and assignments in freshman writing emphasize not only correct writing techniques and grammar, but also Christian principles. In honor of the American Bicentennial, the students in Literary Criticism have chosen to prepare a research paper on Puritanism.

Speech students used to think that tape-recording their speeches was quite nerve-wracking; now, however, the speeches have an added terror since some of them are videotaped. At least one speech must be about America or pertaining to the Bicentennial.

Noteworthy events included a caravan of 140 students to Knoxville to see Macbeth, a team of speech students to Atlanta to enter intercollegiate forensic competition, and the Hilltop Players' production of Thornton Wilder's Our Town.

Mr. Kermit Zopfi, Dean of Students, Assistant Professor

Mr. William Ketchersid, Associate Professor of History

Dr. Robert Spoede, Associate Professor of History ond Sociol Science

Dr. Rabert Jenkins, Professor of Economics

History and Business

The History Department has hod strong emphasis on the Bi centennial in their activities. Patriotic readings in some of our chapel services have been one of their projects. In addition, a series of films about Williamsburg was shown in the Chapel.

The Business Department has added computor application. This year an economics history course is offered in honor of the Bicentennial.

Education and Psychology

Since Dr. Biller's arrival three years ago, he has rewritten the psychology program which now enables the students to study both experimental and clinical psychology. Majors in the program learn theory by working in the Dayton Mental Health Center, which they helped to organize.

Teaching courses on a competency-basis, video-taping student teachers, and micro-teaching in some of the undergraduate courses were added to the education program this year. Dr. Paul Biggers was added this year to relieve the load increase resulting from increased enrollment.

Mr. Wayne Dixon, Athletic Director and Professor of Health and P.E.

Mrs. Mary Holt, Assistant Professar of Music

Mrs. Ruth Bartlett, Assistant Professor af Music

Mr. William Boyd, Assistant Professor of Music

Fine Arts

In all of their programs this year the choir and Madrigals honored America's Bicentennial by singing historical music. The music consisted of songs of the American Revolution, music by the first American composer, Williams Billings, Black Spirituals, songs of the 1920's, and contemporary Gospel folk music-all composed by Americans. A few English songs included music rejected by the Puritans or imitated by the Southern plantation owners. The most exciting event occurred at Christmas time when the choir was invited to participate in Chattanooga's annual Singing Christmas Tree. To support the Bicentennial theme, the members wore Early American outfits. The B.W.A. and some friends in town assisted by making the aprons, bonnets, and shirts.

The formation of the new Chapel Choir by the addition of male voices increased the interest of all concerned.

History of Fine Arts surveyed American art as a special Bicentennial course offering.

Students in the Art Department were happy to move into their new building where they have room to expand.

After taking a year's leave to work on his doctorate, Mr. Boyd once again directed the Symphonic Band and tutored private students. The band's contribution to the Spiritual Life Conference and its spring and fall concerts are annually anticipated by the student body. As a special feature of the Fall Concert, Mr. Boyd directed the band in playing his own composition, "Naos Anthropos."

Division of Natural Sciences

Much progress was made in the Natural Science Division. Mr. Martin Hartzell joined the department as professor of laboratory sciences. The National Science Foundation awarded to the chemistry department a two-year matching grant of $$ 6,000$ to buy certain new equipment. Thus far they have received an ultraviolet-visible spectrophotometer and plan to purchase a polargraph and an infrared-spectrophotometer.

The Math Department purchased a keypunch, especially useful to the computor programming class.

Carolyn O'Connor studies in a library carrel.

Carolyn Luurtsema helps with library clerical work.

Essential in the functianing of the library are Miss Seguine and Mrs. Van Meeveren. Mrs. Andersan was ill when the picture was taken.

Library

Each year Miss Seguine purchases books which help the students with their research. This year the Oxford English Dictionary and the new Encyclopedia Britannica were added to the reference library. Students are starting to use the Vital History cassettes, produced by the Grolier Educational Corporation in connection with CBS News Audio Resource Library.

Jon and Randa utilize the new study area.

Ken Campbell teaches fram Daniel.

Spiritual Life Conference

After carrying out the nitty-gritties of registrotion, students united in the annual two-day preparation for the academic year ahead. The Campbell-Reese Evongelistic team challenged us through songs and messages. The highlight of Jim Reese's ministry came when he sang his original composition "Nebuchadnezzar." Ken Campbell brought pertinent messages from the book of Daniel. Rapport between students and evangelists was especially good since both Ken and Jim were Bryan graduates.
Jim Rer . . . leods the student body's singing.

A welcome relief from sitting on the concrete benches.

Day of Prayer

One day each semester the students, faculty, and administration take a break srom their routine to devote time for special meetings and prayer. Rev. John Oliver, the speaker first semester, brought messages about God's love and adequacy and stressed God's role as protector, pardoner, provider, and preserver. An extra treat was the special music by Chuck and Enid Olson.

John Oliver reminded us of God's odequacy.

Chuck Olson's songs prepared our hearts.

Proyer meetings held throughout the day helped prepore us for the messages.

Jeanette Clift shares her experiences in filming The Hiding Place far this year's literature and modern language lectures.

Lecture Series

For our sixth annual Staley Lecture series, the Biblical Division invited Dr. Kenneth Kantzer, dean of Trinity Evangelical Divinity School, to speak. Dr. Kantzer is the brother of our own Miss Kantzer, professor in the English department. Dr. Kantzer spoke on the topic "The inspiration of the Bible." At a special banquet given for the Bible and Christian Education majors, he challenged them to use their spiritual gifts to build the Church. The students appreciated the practical guides he gave to help us.

Dr. Kantzer shaws the validity af the Bible.

The band provides music for the evening meetings.

Students mingle with missionaries.

Jim Montgomery speaks in his one foreign languogeEnglish.

Malvin Lubenow brings greetings.

Christian Life Conference

Before the battles of secand semester began, we participated in a twoday Christian Life Conference which emphasized the importance of missions. Two principle speakers and thirty missionaries fram twenty-four mission boards shared their views of "Our Changing But Unfinished Task." The students discovered different areas of a missionary's life through various symposia topics as well as the displays in the Lion's Den. Rev. Jim Montgomery and Rev. Malvin Lubinow presented different aspects of the missionary command. Using examples from his experiences in a foreign country, Rev. Montgomery gave us a new look at the command to go to all nations. Rev. Lubenow presented the biblical outlook of missions.

Missianaries are a part of each meeting.

Senate

This year the Senate's welcoming duties were increased, and the Senate made some dress code modifications on women's pantsuits to allow certain pullovers and men's leisure suits to limit to casual wear.

Among the self-improvements of the Senate is its membership in the National Association of Evangelical Students. Senate representatives attended, for the first time, the NAES National Congress in Washington, D.C., during February 23-25.

Those of us who live in dorms know that the Resident Assistants give points, check all-in, and have dorm meetings. What we tend to forget is the instruction, counselling, and guidance they offer.

Student Workers

A very important part of the college is the student worker. This year 300 students worked for the college as foculty ossistants, secretaries, janitors, kitchen workers, and a variety of other categories. This past yeor the work program furnished about $147,000 to the students.

Now hath God set the members every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him.

In whom ye also are builded together
For an habitation of God through the Spirit.
